1. Introduction

O'Brennan Graveyard was surveyed using a Magellan ProMark 3 Rover and Base station and presented in Irish Transverse Mercator (ITM). The GPS graveyard survey datasets were exported using Hangle software from GPS Ireland and then exported into AutoCAD and finished using Adobe Illustrator. Reference numbers mentioned in the main body of the report relate to the ID point given when the survey was undertaken (see A3 plan, Figure 5). A digital photographic record and surname database was also compiled to complement the cartographic survey (see Appendices below). Digital photographs of the features within the graveyard are referenced in the appendix and all photographs are provided on the attached disc.

The survey was undertaken in March 2010 and was undertaken with due regard to:

- Conservation principles as produced by ICOMOS in the Venice and Burra Charters
- The publication in 2004 of the Architectural Heritage Protection-Guidelines for Planners by the DoEHLG
- The heritage objectives as outlined and adopted in the current Kerry County Council Development Plan 2009-2015, Built Heritage (Chapter 10).

The Convention for the Protection of the Architectural Heritage of Europe was signed at the Granada Convention in 1985 and ratified by Ireland in 1997. The conservation aims as stated in the Burra Charter are for the retention or restoration of historical significance with the minimum of physical intervention and that such intervention work be reversible, maintain the structure's character and setting and that all conservation works should be undertaken following comprehensive research.

An information booklet on care and maintenance for tombs should be compiled and supplied to the relevant parish church.

All of these graveyards are recorded monuments protected under the National Monuments (Amendment) Act 1994 and under the jurisdiction of Kerry County Council. All proposed works should be carried out by experience competent personnel under expert archaeological / architectural guidance and supervision. As these sites are recorded monuments conservation and restoration works can only be carried out under licence from the National Monuments Service of the Dept. of Environment, Heritage and Local Gov.

2. Site Location & Description

O'Brennan graveyard is located in Crag townland approximately 9km east of Tralee (Figure 1).

It is situated 2.5km north of the N21, Tralee to Castleisland-Limerick routeway. The site is located on the lower slopes of the Stacks Mountains at 85m OD with expansive views of the Slieve Mish Mountains and Lee Valley to the southwest with the Gap of Dunloe of the Reeks clearly visible to the south.

The approach to the graveyard is from a minor road that also services a working, busy farm known as O'Brennan House. Ample parking is available for funerals or for visitors around the spacious open area in front of the graveyard associated with this busy farm (Plate 1 & Figure 5).

There is no water provided or refuse collection facilities provided.

In general the graveyard internally is kept neat and tidy especially around the southern perimeter concrete pathway with the grass well managed (Plate 2). Other informal grassy paths extend around the other three boundary walls. However, the interior of the graveyard has no defined paths and is very bumpy and irregular and covered in deep grass with some briar as well, making the interior very difficult to negotiate (Plate 3).

3. O'Brennan Graveyard

O'Brennan-O' Braonainn-translates as Uaimh Bhreannán or Brendan's Cave, that was named after St. Brendan the patron saint of Kerry. Apparently in 494AD St. Brendan, as a boy of ten, was sent to stay overnight by his foster-father St. Erc in the cave as a penance for some misdemeanour (Ua Riogbhardáin and Ua Ciarrbhaic 1932, 14).

The Rev. Denis O'Donoghue who wrote the seminal work Brendaniana in 1893 records... The spot became the site of a parish church now called O'Brennan (the 'O' representing the Irish 'Uaimh'), where there are the ruins of an ancient church and a large and much used graveyard. The cave itself was preserved with religious care through many centuries and a little nunnery was built and maintained close beside it...there is no trace now remaining of the little convent and even the venerable cave itself cannot be identified with any certainty. It appears that some vandal, who wanted stones, quarried into the cave some forty or fifty years ago and destroyed almost every vestige of it (O'Donoghue, 1893).

There is no remains of this cave today however, there is a large distinct depressed area at the north east corner of the graveyard that may reflect this cave (Plate 4).

The site is recorded in the Record of Monuments and Places (RMP as KE030-018001-graveyard and KE030-018003-church (Figure 2).

In 1302 the tithes for the Church of St. Brendan's Cave was valued at 10s. In 1368 the rector of St. Brandan de Antro was John de Geraldines (King 1931, 259).

Charles Smith records in 1756 ...O'Brenane, an entire rectory, the church in ruins. Patron: the bishop, Proxy 10s (Smith 1756, 39).

There were no remains of the church when the site was inspected by John O'Donovan in July 1841 (O'Donovan 1983, 63).

O'Brennan Graveyard is denoted on the 1st Edition OS map, sheet 30, 1841, however, no indication of a church or nunnery is denoted (Figure 3).

Similarly, the 2nd Edition OS of 1896 only denotes the graveyard (Figure 4).

In the course of this survey the possible outline of a building were recorded. These comprised a low northern and western outline of a possible rectangular structure situated on a bumpy platform area surrounded by several tombs and with a distinct E-W orientation. Within this area the ground is overgrown with deep grass, briars and is collapsed and dangerous and therefore not possible in the course of this survey to determine with any certainty the nature of this structure (Figure 5).

4. Boundaries

Boundary walls of this small rectangular graveyard are constructed with rubble limestone built to courses and bedded in mortar and capped with 'soldiers' and are in excellent condition. The walls are 1.2m high internally. The W and N boundary walls are almost entirely covered in ivy but otherwise in good condition although a whitethorn tree encroaches mid way along the west boundary wall (Plates 2 & 5). Kerry County Council put in some small No Dumping signs at the W and N walls.

4.1 Recommendations

The ivy should be removed from the boundary walls.

5. Entrance

Entry into the graveyard is gained through a pair of modern green painted iron gates set between three square piers of coursed squared limestone blocks capped with soldiers and contemporaneous with the boundary walls (Plate 6). The gates open easily and freely.

5.1 Recommendations

No recommendations required.

6. Pathways, shelter/ altar & stoup

There is a formal concrete path in excellent condition that extends along the southern internal perimeter of the graveyard (Plates 2). An informal grassy pathway, kept low but grass cutting, extends along the W, N and E boundary (Plates 4 & 5 and Figure 5).

A modern covered shelter/altar structure (305) with seating is situated at the northwest corner of the graveyard on the pathway. Concrete bench seating is also provided outside the shelter / altar area (Plates 2). Alongside the altar against the S boundary wall is a rectangular stone stoup or basin (300), 0.61m L x 0.37m W x 0.15m D, placed on a low rubble limestone plinth with the words Donated by Jerry Breen inscribed in cement (Plate 7). Internally the stoup/ basin measures 0.465 L x 0.23m W x 0.095m D. There is some punch dressing here and there on the inside while the exterior is roughly trimmed.

6.1 Recommendations

Additional informal pathways should be created to access the interior of the graveyard. This will necessitate the cutting away of the grass and briars in the interior and maintain it at a low level.

7. Desire Lines

The existing formal and informal perimeter pathway services much of this small graveyard. However, the interior is devoid of any pathways formal or informal and it is overgrown, bumpy and very difficult to traverse (Plate 3).

7.1 Recommendations

The interior dense grass and briars should be cut back short and maintained at this low level. Some internal informal paths could then be created to gain access to the interior.

8. Named Tombs

There were nineteen named tombs recorded, largely in a good state of preservation (Appendix 1). The majority are 'strong-box' type and there is a very fine rectangular chest tomb also, built with ashlar limestone (Plate 8).

Twelve of the tombs are built with ashlar limestone of which ten are in very good order. However, ashlar tombs (110 and 257) are partially collapsed and broken (Plates 9 & 10). The seven other named tombs comprise two small rectangular low types (212 & 232), both of which require repairs to their sides. One tomb is illegible and survives as a grassy overgrown mound (Plate 11). Another rendered tomb (181) is interesting in that it has embolded on it in concrete that it was repaired by Patrick Fitzmaurice in 1916 (Plate 12). Presently it is partially overgrown and its render is cracked and in need of attention. The other named tomb (191) survives as a grass covered mound in need of serious repairs (Plate 13).

8.1 Recommendations

Tombs 110 and 257 should be repaired. The haunches of tomb 110 are particularly bad and collapsed. Tomb 257 is covered in ivy and briars while its haunches are also damaged. The sides of the small rectangular tombs, 212 & 232, should be repaired and re-rendered. The other named grassy covered tombs should be cleared of growth and assessed for further repairs and restoration. All works should be carried following individual archaeological advice and supervision.

9. Unnamed tombs

Fifteen unnamed tombs (Appendix 2) were recorded in very poor states of preservation. Eight are barely manifest above the uneven ground with some masonry visible while the seven others have a higher above ground register but are still entirely covered grass, sod, ivy and briars. Tomb 140 is also partially open.

9.1 Recommendations

It would require focused targeted archaeological excavation to undertake refurbishment and conservation work of these unnamed collapsed tombs. However, initially all the tombs should be cut back and ivy and brambles removed. The rough deep grass and other vegetation in the interior of the graveyard should be cut as low as possible and the area and tombs re-evaluated by a qualified archaeologist. All open and exposed tombs should be fully repaired and sealed. This work should be undertaken with expert archaeological advice and guidance.

Tumbled, fallen rubble stone in the areas of the tombs should be removed and / or gathered up under archaeological supervision in order to define and record the exact extent and construction details of the tombs. Furthermore, many tombs often contain medieval architectural fragments in them and these can be recorded and preserved.

It is likely that local information would furnish the names associated with these unnamed tombs and this information should be collected.

10. Named Headstones

A total of 82 named headstones (Appendix 3) were recorded in O'Brennan graveyard. The vast majority of them are modern and in good order. However, a few in the interior of the graveyard are under pressure from un-managed growth and need to be cleared, in particular (75) a tall modern High Cross (Plate 14). Another illegible broken cross (41) should be cleaned and repaired. Apparently the oldest recorded headstone is from 1759 with the name Moor on it but it was not found in the course of this survey unless it is one of the illegible ones. The earliest named headstone recorded in this survey (151) was Maurice Hanaghlán (Hanrahan?) who died in 1786 aged 77 years (Plate 15).

At the west end of the graveyard there is a large republican grave setting (2) to the memory of local men, Patrick Herlihy, John Reidy, Denis Broderick and Michael Brosnan who died in those awful troubled times between 1920 and 1923 (Plate 16, Figure 5). A little to the north of the republican grave is the burial place (23) of another soldier, Captain Séan Ó Crónín who died in 1926 aged 27 years (Plate 17 & Figure 5).

10.1 Recommendations

The vegetation in the interior of the graveyard at O'Brennan should be cut back very low and kept that way. This will improve access into the centre and aid maintenance of the graves and tombs. After the grass has been cut back and the briars etc removed, the interior should be resurveyed and updated.

11. Unnamed Headstones

Nine unnamed headstones (Appendix x), of unhewn local stone were recorded within the graveyard (Figure 5 & Plate 18).

11.1 Recommendations

No recommendations necessary

12. O'Brennan Church

In the course of this survey the possible outline of a section of a building was recorded. These comprised a low northern and western outline of a possible rectangular structure situated on a bumpy platform area surrounded by several tombs and with a distinct E-W orientation. Within this area the ground is overgrown with deep grass, briars and is collapsed and dangerous and therefore not possible in the course of this survey to determine with any certainty the nature of this structure (Plate 19 & Figure 5).

12.1 Recommendations

The area in the interior of the graveyard should be cut back and then re-surveyed to determine if any further remains of the structure are visible.

13. Summary of recommendations for future management/conservation of O'Brennan graveyard

- The dense grass and brambles in the interior of O'Brennan graveyard should be cut down and maintained at a low level. Subsequent to its reduction the area should be re-examined and re-surveyed to determine the extent of the possible church structure and to assess how to create informal safe paths into it.
- All vegetation on the tombs should be cut back and removed. The tombs can then be reconstructed, repaired and repointed sensitive to their original construction. The render should be replaced sensitive to the original construction. This work may require Ministerial Consent.
- The ivy and other growth should only be fully removed as the primary element of an agreed strategy of repairs and other conservation and restoration works. Otherwise ivy and other growth should be simply cut back and maintained at a controllable level.
- Restoration works should only be carried out by qualified personnel under archaeological supervision.
- An information booklet on care and maintenance for tombs should be compiled and supplied to the relevant parish church.

- It is likely that local information would furnish the names associated with these unnamed tombs and this information should be collected.
- An information board similar to one already existing at Killury graveyard, in Lis-sycurrig townland near Causeway, should be established at a suitable location within the graveyard, most likely to the east of the entrance gate on its interior.
- The Care and Conservation of Graveyards, a publication from The Office of Public Works (OPW) is recommended reading for future maintenance of the church and graveyard.
- An informative booklet on O'Brennan Graveyard should be compiled by Kerry County Council and supplied to the relevant parish church. It should include helpful tips for parishioners on caring for the graveyard, and the individual plots, as well as giving advice about works which may professional services such as the cleaning of old headstones etc.

Note on Recommendations

All recommendations as set out above are recommendations only based on visual site fieldwork undertaken by the writer. No invasive or other intervention work was undertaken in the course of producing this report. Ultimately, no responsibility will be accepted by the writer with regard to the undertaking of the conservation work as recommended in this report and based only on visual inspection. The ultimate decision on recommendations etc rests with Kerry County Council.
